What's New in the Photoshop CC 2015 Version 16?

Q: Kafka Streams starting with multiple records (T+1) I am trying to use kafka streams to process a continuous stream of records. The first record is "innocent", but the second record has a timestamp T+1 seconds after the first. What happens is that the record T+1 is not dropped, and I end up with two records, the first one being the first record, and the second one with the T+1 time stamp. I want to drop the first one. I expect the output to be a Stream of [innocent, T+1] but I am getting a Stream of [innocent, innocent]. KStreamBuilder builder = new KStreamBuilder(); builder.stream("inputTopic") .map(new MapFunction>() { @Override public MapFunction> map(String value) { KStream stream = builder.stream("outputTopic"); KStream one = stream.map(new MapFunction() { @Override public String map(String value) { if (value.equals("innocent")) { return "innocent"; } else { return "innocent"; }
